Mr. Baldwin said that nothing beyond the cable announcement of heath had been received at the Astor offices in this city to-day, and it was too early to give ent any information regarding funeral arrangements. They knew nothing thereof at the office, and did not expect to have any London advices before to-morrow.

It was, of course, accepted that the funeral would be held here, and interment made in Trinity Cemetery, where Mr. Astor's child lies buried.

At a few minutes past p o'clock the cry suddenly went up: " The troops are coming, the troops are coming!" and instantly the greatest excitement prevailed.

The militia came in by rail from above the town and at once surrounded the Carnegie mills. They were received with cheers from the bystanders as the train rolled in, and most respectful consideration was accorded them in every respect.

The first detachment of troops was in command of Gen. Snowden. The next detachment to arrive was made up of the Fourteenth and Eighteenth regiments, from Pittsburg, and Battery " D," of the First Brigade, with two gatting guns and three field pieces.
